BENJAMIN J. JARBOE A RESPECTED PIONEER

Grant Croghan of Yankee Hill, furnishes the Mercury the following obituary notice of his old friend, Benjamin J. Jarboe, who died at the county infirmary February 5 and was buried at Yankee Hill February 6:

Deceased was one of the early settlers, having crossed the plains on a mule in the early fifties. He helped drive a band of cattle to Hangtown. From there he went to Marysville, where he worked for a butchering concern for several years. He finally took up his residence on Paradise ridge, where he bought a ranch and engaged in the raising of Angora goats. Later he took up his residence at Yankee Hill, where he lived for several years. He resided in Gridley for a short time, returning to Yankee Hill from there, finally taking up his residence with Grant Croghan. His health failed him and being badly in need of medical assistance, was compelled to go to the county infirmary for relief.

Deceased was born in Kentucky in February, 1830, and was of French descent. He was married in Marysville, two children being the result of the union, a son, Henry, and a daughter, Mrs. Durett. The son met with a fatal accident in a mine near Placerville and the daughter died at Yankee Hill. Mrs. Jarboe died a few years ago at the old home at Yankee Hill, where she was buried. Deceased requested that he be buried by the side of his wife, which request was granted.
